READY FOR WORK AGAINST SILVER

WISCONSIN DEMOCRATS SELECT HEADQUARTERS.

Chairman Ellis B. Usher In Charge, and the Campaign Thoroughly Planned—Senator Jones Finds Business Men Slow to Contribute to the Bryan Cause.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 21.—Headquarters of the Wisconsin national gold democracy will be opened in the Plankinton house on Monday. Chairman Usher will install himself there, and will at once arrange the final details for the convention which is to be held here next Wednesday. There will be no attempt to place a state ticket in the field, and the convention will merely elect delegates to the Indianapolis convention, adopt a platform and make arrangements for putting an electoral ticket in the field in this state.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Senator Jones of Arkansas is in the city for the first time since he was elected chairman of the democratic national committee. The Arkansas senator, after a long conference with several Chicago silver leaders, reached the conclusion that to stay in the Sherman house and make that hostelry a campaign headquarters would be a confession of financial weakness. He therefore went down to the Auditorium Annex and arranged to rent a suite of expensive apartments on the club-room floor.

Late in the evening Chairman Jones appointed Clark Howell of Georgia chief of the literary bureau, which will be opened by the committee next week, and then named F. U. Adams of Chicago to be Mr. Howell's assistant. The members of the campaign committee, who are in the city, will remain for several days, and will assist Chairman Jones to get the headquarters into working shape.

CLAIMS INDIANA BY 40,000.

Chairman Holt Declares that Gold Has No Chance in that State.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 21.—S. R. Holt, chairman of the democratic state committee, upon being requested by a New York paper to furnish a signed statement of the outlook in the state, has sent the following:

"The success of the democratic national and state tickets is assured in Indiana by 40,000 majority. We have no fusion on the national or state ticket. The populists nominated a state ticket, but did not name an electoral ticket, but favored the election of Bryan and Sewall and will vote for them.

"In a presidential year Indiana is usually a close state. The populists poll about 20,000 votes, which will be solid for the democratic electors. In every precinct republicans are declaring themselves for free silver. More than 15,000 republicans will vote for Bryan and Sewall.

"The single-standard democrats in this state who are in favor of nominating a national ticket will not poll 5,000 votes. The republicans will not gain any votes from democrats who are opposed to the Chicago platform, as they will prefer to vote for Bryan rather than McKinley.

"STERLING R. HOLT,
"Chairman Democratic State Committee."

The policy of the republican committee is not to make any claims at this time, and no statement was furnished by it.

FUSION IN IDAHO.

Democrats and Populists Reach an Amicable Agreement.

Boise, Idaho, Aug. 21.—Fusion between democrats and populists has been agreed upon. The democrats get three electors, the governor, the supreme court, attorney-general and inspector of mines. The populists get the congressman, lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, state auditor, superintendent of public instruction and treasurer.

The state now presents this condition of affairs: Of the 28,000 voters at least 25,000, it is said, favor Bryan and Sewall. About 12,000 of these are silver republicans. The silver republicans offered to agree on a state ticket composed of all the silver parties, and send all the silver speakers east for Bryan. The fusion plan ignores the Bryan republicans, and gives the legislature to the populists. The populists secure the congressman, the democrats the governor, and they alternate on the balance of the ticket. This necessitates the nomination of a separate electoral ticket by the Bryan republicans. This will make the state the center of one of the greatest contests in the history of the west, as the leading silver republicans have offered their services during the campaign to insure the re-election of Senator Dubois.

NATIONAL PARTY'S TICKET.

Isaac Wiggs of Chicago Is Nominated for Governor at Decatur.

Decatur, Ill., Aug. 21.—At the forenoon session of the national party state convention on Thursday the "broad-gauge" platform adopted at Pittsburg was indorsed, and the effort to cause the Illionis prohibitionists to fuse with the "narrow-gauge" prohibitionists proved a failure. The following state ticket was nominated:

Governor, Isaac Wiggs, Chicago; lieutenant-governor, A. C. Allen, Murphysboro; secretary of state, L. G. Spencer, Chicago; auditor, J. A. Hoopes, Ipava; treasurer, A. L. Scott, Orangeville; attorney-general, G. A. Gordon, Campbell Hill; university trustees, Mary E. Metzger, Moline; Mrs. Eliza J. Adams, Quincy; and Mrs. J. D. Collins, Vandalia; United States senator, Daniel R. Sheen, Peoria; electors-at-large, W. E. Mann, Decatur; J. W. Wells, Chicago.

Money was pledged to pay campaign expenses. In the afternoon C. E. Bentley, nominee for president, addressed the convention. He addressed a mass-meeting at night at the tabernacle, taking up each plank of the national party.

BOLTS THE OLD PARTY.

Breckinridge, of Kentucky Comes Out for Gold.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 21.—The national democratic party (gold) of the state of Kentucky convened at Music hall Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, being called to order by Chairman Davie of the provisional state executive committee. Ex-Lieut-Gov. Hindman was elected temporary chairman by acclamation, and after his speech of acceptance there were loud and prolonged cheers for Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge. He made a speech advocating the maintenance of the gold standard and the defeat of Bryan. Gen. S. B. Buckner was indorsed for the vice-president. R. T. Tyler and Judge Quincy Ward were made electors for the state-at-large.

ITINERARY OF MR. BRYAN.

Work Laid Out for the Democratic Nominee Up to Date.

Upper Red Hook, N. Y., Aug. 21—The complete itinerary of William J. Bryan, as arranged up to date, is as follows: Aug. 23.—Albany, from 4:30 to 10 p. m., speech. Aug. 26.—Syracuse, 2:30 a. m. until 12 m., speech. Rochester, 1:30 until 2:30 p. m. Pass through Buffalo to Erie, speech at Erie at night. Aug. 27.—Buffalo, afternoon and evening, speech. Aug. 28.—Medina, in a forenoon speech; Niagara Falls in evening. Aug.29.—Hornellsville, in afternoon, speech; Jamestown, N. Y., evening, and thence to Chautauqua. Aug. 30.—Chautauqua over Sunday. Aug. 31.—Cleveland, O., speech. Sept. 1.—Columbus, O., speech. Sept. 2.—Toledo, O., speech. Sept. 3.—South Bend, Ind., speech. Sept. 4.—Chicago. Sept. 5.—Go direct to Lincoln, Neb., by Burlington route; no stops.

The confirmation of the belief that Mr. Bryan thoroughly understands the leaders of the party in New York state, and that he is campaigning here with the full consent and even connivance of the state democratic leaders has been shown in various ways.

Hanna Advises Hard Work.

New York, Aug. 21.—Chairman Hanna believes in work, and since his return from the west has convinced many republicans here that there is plenty of work to do. "Organize in every county, in every town and in every township and election district. Do not neglect any point," said Mr. Hanna. "Have plenty of speaking. Get up meetings everywhere. Organize all the clubs you can, and have men in every election district who will see to it that every man who is for gold is registered and that he votes on election day." Such is the plan of campaign outlined by the chairman of the national committee.

Think Hoke Smith Will Help.

Washington, Aug. 21.—The most important event at the headquarters of the democratic congressional committee Thursday was the visit of Secretary Hoke Smith, who called there and had a long and confidential talk with Senator Faulkner. This visit at a time when the gold democrats are preparing to hold their convention and to place a third ticket in the field is regarded as extremely important and is thought to show that the secretary of the interior proposes to give hearty support to the ticket nominated at Chicago.

Connecticut Silver Men.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 21.—Silver standard democrats of Connecticut assembled here Thursday for the purpose of perfecting an organization to carry on state committee work in behalf of Bryan and Sewall. Sympathizers with the movement were present from various sections of the state, Litchfield county alone being unrepresented. In the platform adopted the policy of the democratic state central committee was bitterly denounced and the platform and candidates of the Chicago convention were indorsed.

Fusion Plan in Colorado.

Pueblo, Col., Aug. 21.—The democratic state convention completed its work with little friction, and evolved what the delegates believe to be a most favorable fusion plan, upon which they hope to unite the great majority of free-silver advocates under the democratic banner and the Bryan and Sewall ticket. By a general resolution adopted four electors were named, pledged to vote for Bryan and Sewall; the present delegation in congress was indorsed, and the party followers are pledged to their re-election.

Watterson for President.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Information was received yesterday by the anti-silver democrats and Henry Watterson would accept the nomination for president at the Indianapolis convention. The other possibility who is most talked of is Gen. Bragg of Wisconsin. It was said by the members of the state organization that the nomination would certainly go either to Bragg or to Watterson.

FEW COULD ESCAPE FROM THE TORRENT

CLOUDBURST SWEEPS A NEW MEXICO CANON.

Loss of Life Is Thought to Be Large—More Than Twenty Miners Were In the Path of the Flood—Property Loss Is Heavy—Disasters of the Day.

Mogollon, N. M., Aug. 21.—A cloudburst struck this place about 4 p. m. Wednesday, leaving death and destruction behind. John Knight, a miner who resided at Georgetown, was drowned in his cabin. Several others are reported missing, but so far only two bodies, those of Knight and an unknown Mexican, have been recovered. These were found in a field about six miles below here. About 100 families have been rendered homeless and 30 houses have been washed away. The property of the Colonial Mining Company, of Boston, Mass., has suffered to a large extent, the assay office, millhouse, powder house and blacksmith shop being washed away. It is feared the mine is filled with mud and water. The manager and assayers had a narrow escape, being assisted to the bank by means of ropes.

The flood attained a height of over eight feet in the street and lasted over 30 minutes. Had it so continued 10 minutes longer, the whole town would have been swept away, as the debris had collected in the street, forming a solid wall, just as the flood began to recede. Hardly a business house in the town escaped damage. The wagon road leading up the mountain to the town, which was built a few years ago at immense cost, and which is the only outlet for freighters, has been entirely ruined, and all goods brought into the camp will have to be brought in on pack animals.

The storm was general to this section of the territory. Advices from Graham state that a cloudburst on the mountain side caused a flood at the Confidence mine, a property belonging to the Helen Mining company of Denver, Col., situated about three miles from there. The flood carried away the shop and supplies of the mine. Nine horses that were at the ore chutes loading ore for the mill were washed over the steep precipice and killed. The men working in the tunnel barely escaped with their lives.

It is feared that the loss of life around Mogollon will be much greater than first reports made it. There were at least twenty persons, mostly miners, living right in the track of the great wall of water. They occupied for the most part adobe dwellings. These have been swept away, and their occupants cannot be heard from. Some of these may have been warned in time to get out of the way, but it is certain that a number have perished. The loss to the mining companies will amount to thousands of dollars. Expensive machinery had lately been put in the mines and much of this is a total wreck.

BURIED IN ST. PAUL'S.

Crowds Attend the Funeral of Sir John Millais at London.

London, Aug. 21.—The funeral of Sir John Millais, late president of the Royal Academy, who died Thursday, Aug. 13, took place yesterday at St. Paul's cathedral. The route from the residence of the deceased to Burlington House and from there to St. Paul's Cathedral was lined by immense crowds of people. The pallbearers were Lord Rosebery, the Marquis of Granby, Lord Wolsely, Sir Henry Irving, Sir George Reid, president of the Royal Scottish Academy of Painting, etc.; Lord Carlisle, William Holman Hunt and Phillip Hermogenes Calderon. The cortege was preceded by an open car bearing the coffin and another piled high with floral wreaths. Among those present at the services were Hilary A. Herbert, secretary of the United States navy, and Lieutenant Commander W. S. Cowles, the United States naval attache.

Gold Democrats of Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 21.—The gold democrats of Nebraska named a delegation to the Indianapolis convention Thursday night. It was the consensus of opinion that a third ticket in Nebraska is not only necessary to aid in the effort to defeat Bryan, but also to preserve the regular party organization in this state after the issues of the present campaign shall have been decided at the polls. Every delegate was pledged to vote for a gold standard candidate for president, but no preference was given as between available men.

Gov. Matthews Still Ill.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 21.—Instead of improving with rest at his home, Gov. Matthews has grown worse and his physician has ordered him to leave the city and remain away till he is restored to health. He is suffering from a severe cold, with congestion of the lungs. He was billed for a speech at a local demonstration to-night, but the doctors were imperative and the governor submitted.

Shot and Wounded an Editor.

Curtis, Neb., Aug. 21.—S.D. Razer, editor of the Curtis Courier, was shot and fatally injured Wednesday night by J. J. Carry, a farmer with whom he had a dispute over a trivial matter.

BOILER EXPLODED ON LAKE STEAMER

BOAT'S PASSENGERS HAVE A NARROW ESCAPE.

Several Persons Scalded on the Manitou, at Clark's Lake, Jackson, Michigan—Bravery of the Captain Averts a Panic—No Lives Lost—How the Mishap Occurred.

Jackson, Mich., Aug. 21.—The boiler of the steamer Manitou of Clark's Lake Boat company at Clark's lake blew up at 7 o'clock Thursday evening while seventy-five passengers were on board. No one was drowned, but Engineer Fred Hinckley, Robbie Tawse of Owosso and Mrs. Jewell of Parma were more or less scalded. Arthur Richardson, Engineer Hinckley and Robbie Tawse jumped into the water when the steam and hot water began to escape. They were soon rescued.

Captain Verne Badgley, by cool head and heroic efforts, quieted the panic-stricken women who attempted to jump into the lake. The canopy of the boat was blown off, but the steamer's hull was not damaged and the steamer was towed to the dock by the steamer C. J. & M. The boiler was tested by a government inspector three weeks ago with 150 pounds of steam. There were ninety pounds of steam when the accident happened.

The wildest excitement prevailed as soon as the gray puff of smoke and steam shot heavenward with a deafening report. Splinters of the canopy flew in every direction, and falling debris, with darkening clouds of smoke and steam overhead, resembled for a moment an awful storm and added terror to the stricken hearts of the women and children on board. Mothers clasped their children instinctively, and with blanched faces hugged them close, while girls who a moment before were chatting attentively with their lovers shrieked and pulled their hair and clawed each other in their wild attempt to get somewhere only for safety.

The boat swayed and the boiler toppled over. An awful shriek went up as the people rushed to either end of the boat and two or three went overboard. In an instant women, crying and moaning, attempted to follow those already in the water. Then it was that the keen-cut and stern countenance of Captain Verne Badgley loomed up amid the scene of panic, and in a strong unflinching voice commanded all to be quiet and sit down.

It temporarily quelled the excitement and then with all calmness he seated a number who were scrambling over the railing. Two men plunged or were pushed off the stern of the boat. They buoyed themselves to floating pieces of the hurricane deck, while ropes were thrown to a woman who was floundering in the water and was about to sink. They were all rescued.

At Maj. M'Kinley's Home.

Canton, O., Aug. 21.—Saturday a big delegation is expected to come from Newcastle, Pa., to call on Maj. McKinley. They sent word that they will use two special trains to transport them here. Following this delegation will be the commercial traveling men, who are to congregate in this city Aug. 29. Word was received from Baltimore that a large delegation would come from that city probably Sept. 18. The plan is to have a delegation of at least 1,000 start from that city, and increase the number by recruits on the way. Pittsburg and other cities are to be invited to join the visitors. Two delegations are booked for Monday. One is being organized by the farmers of Knox county, Ohio, and the other will be composed of residents of East Liverpool and vicinity.

Cleveland's Attitude Feared.

Madrid, Aug. 21.—Senor Segasta, ex-prime minister of Spain, in an interview said it was proposed to send a dispatch containing a memorandum upon the Cuban war to the United States government, but this effort failed, owing to treason and treachery. He feared that President Cleveland's successor would be impelled by the force of public opinion in America to take an attitude hostile to Spain. In conclusion, Senor Segasta insisted that it was necessary to continue the war in Cuba in order to prove that Spain is not afraid of threats of a conflict with a greater nation.

Maine Gold Democrats Meet.

Portland, Me., Aug. 21.—The gold democrats held a convention in Congress hall Thursday, and after organizing and choosing delegates to Indianapolis listened to addresses by Colonel John R. Fellows of New York and Harvey N. Shepard of Boston. The platform indorsed the action of the provisional national committee in summoning the gold democrats of this country to meet in national convention at Indianapolis for the purpose of nominating a democratic presidential ticket.

A. P. A. for McKinley.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—W. S. Linton, a congressman from Michigan, who was urged for the vice presidential nomination by the American Protective association organization, called on Chairman Payne yesterday, it is asserted, and pledged the support of his secret society to McKinley.

NO CHANGE AT ELWOOD.

Little Hope of an Agreement Being Reached.

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 21.—The strike situation remains practically the same, with little hope of the opposing parties reaching any agreement. The strikers have all approaches to the factory carefully guarded and the only way a workman can gain access to the plant is by getting permission from the strikers. The company is making arrangements to start Monday with non-union men. The result is anxiously awaited.

President Garland said that there would be no trouble, as the strikers were law-abiding and any outbreak would not be allowed by the leaders. He said that the company could not get men to fill the strikers' places and that even if they did make the start it could not last long. Asked about the report that a boycott would be placed ont the output of the plant and firms handling it, he said that was a subject which would come up later on.

Workmen in Leased Mines Quit Work.

Columbus, O., Aug. 21.—Information received at the headquarters of the United Mineworkers is to the effect that the Smith mines at Shawnee closed down Thursday. The 200 or more miners who have been operating these mines under the lease system stopped work in accordance with the mandate of the recent state convention, declaring for the abolishment of the lease system.

The Latrobe miners in Athens county closed their mines and took out their tools the day after the state convention adjourned without waiting for the date set for cessation of work in leased mines. President Penna of the national organization and President Ratchford of the state organization were at Shawnee and also at Corning, and it is believed that all the lease mine workers there will stop work. Some 1,200 of them are expected to go out.

Chicago May Eetertain Soldiers.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 21.—Notice has been received at the headquarters of the national Grand Army in this city that Chicago will be a contestant for the honor of entertaining the veterans at their next annual encampment and that her people are going in to win. It is proposed to raise the largest fund that has yet been raised by any city for a similar purpose and to guarantee to the old soldiers a measure of entertainment that has been attempted by no other city. Commander-in-Chief Walker is taking no part in the matter, but the Grand Army men are very enthusisastic in their advocacy of Chicago, and say that the delegates from Indiana will be a unit for that city.

Detroit Law Firm Dissolves.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 21.—A dissolution of the legal co-partnership of Don M. Dickinson, H. T. Thurber and Elliott G. Stevenson is announced to take place on Sept. 1. Mr. Dickinson is said to have been much displeased when he returned from the east and found that Mr. Stevenson had to some extent compromised the firm by accepting the chairmanship of the state central committee and becoming responsible for the Bryan campaign in Michigan. Mr. Stevenson later resigned the chairmanship, but the friction continued, and the result was the decision on Mr. Stevenson's part to withdraw from the firm.

Christian Union Convention.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 21.—The Christian union convention has been designated as an institute, and hereafter the session will be largely devoted to instructions and addresses from various church dignitaries. The general committee recommends the officers, and the recommendations are generally adopted. The officers elected are: John G. Quay of Denver, president; Mrs. Mary Porter Kyle of Michigan, secretary; and W. J. Stewart of Parnassus, Pa., treasurer.

DESPITE HIS FLOP PECK MAY BE OUT

SILVER DEMOCRATS DO NOT TRUST HIM.

They Prefer a Man Who Was For the White Metal All the Time—Long List of Democrats Who Turn Their Back On the Organization.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 21.—Chairman Peck of the democratic state committee has accepted the resignation from that committee of L. W. Nieman and J. H. Bashford of Madison. Both refused to support Bryan and free silver. It is reported that F. M. Smead of Fond du Lac, Senator Mead of Plymouth, Joseph Vilas of Manitowoc and T. F. Frawley of Eau Claire, who signed the call for a convention of gold democrats, will also leave the committee. The vacancies will be filled at the state convention. It is understood that Chairman Peck will select a pronounced silver man for temporary chairman of the state convention. A movement to oust Peck from the chairmanship has been started. The men who are actively supporting Bryan say they prefer to have an "original" silver man at the helm, and besides, they do not like Peck's action in abandoning the apportionment suit.

LORD RUSSELL'S ADDRESS.

England's Chief Justice Talks on International Arbitration.

Sarotoga, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The second day's session of the American Bar Association was held here Thursday.

The feature of the day's proceedings was an address on international law delivered by the Rt.-Hon. Lord Russell of Killowen, LL. D., G. C. M. G., etc., lord chief justice of England. The address, while received with great evident interest by the assembled jurists, was purely testimonial and of little interest to the general public. Toward the close, touching upon international arbitration, the speaker said:

"Are we to conclude that the millennium of peace has arrived—that the dove has returned to the ark, sure sign that the waters of international strife have permanently subsided. Arbitration will not cover the whole field of international controversy, and until the great powers of the world, in league, bind themselves together to coerce a recalcitrant member of the family of nations, we have still to face the more than possible disregard by powerful states of the obligations of good faith and of justice. But the sanctions which restrain the wrong-doer, the breaker of public faith, the disturber of the peace of the world, are not the weak and year by year they wax stronger. They are the dread of war and the reprobation of mankind. Public opinion is a force which makes itself felt in every corner and cranny of the world and is most powerful in the communities most civilized."

BORNE TO THE TOMB.

Funeral of Gail Hamilton Devoid of All Ostentation.

Hamilton, Mass., Aug. 21.—Entire absence from ostentation characterized the funeral of Miss Mary Abigail Dodge (Gail Hamilton), which was held from her home in this town at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. There were present nearly all of the people of the town of Hamilton, young and old, and there was an unusually large number of young people. The burial was private, and was in the Hamilton Cemetery.

May Tie Up Eastern Roads.

New York, Aug. 21.—The World says: "All employes of the Adams Express company in eastern cities may stop work in two days. The general executive board of the Knights of Labor ordered this sympathetic strike Wednesday. It is said that the Switchmen's Mutual Aid association stands behind the strikers, and that the switchmen in the Jersey City yards of the Pennsylvania railroad may go out.

Young Girl Cuts Her Throat.

Perry, O. T., Aug. 21.—Lillie Smith, 14-year-old daughter of Alfred H. Smith, a farmer living thirty miles northwest of here, committed suicide by cutting her throat with her father's razor. Her lover went with another girl.

Americans at Stratford.

"Of course," says the English host to his American visitor, "you will run down to Stratford to drop a tear at the tomb of Shakespeare. All Americans do that." Though weeping Americans are seldom seen in Stratford, the other kind are so numerous there that their presence and patronage give the tranquil, dreamy old town a boom every summer that keeps its innholders happy all winter. The town lives on Shakespeare and Americans.' "Who do you suppose ever buys these things?" an Englishman was heard asking his lady companion as they peered into the window of a knicknack shop. "Oh, Americans!" was the reply. "They'll buy anything at Stratford."—Boston Transcript.

Missionary Work.

It is the duty of every Christian to help those institutions, and our devotion to God impels us to do missionary work, it being more needed today than ever before. We need a clear vision of human needs to have a deeper compassion for the destitute.—Rev. E. E. Chivers.

CRAZE DYING OUT FAST AS IT GREW

ROCK COUNTY SILVERITES BECOMING SCARCE,

Qualified Observers Say There Has Been a Fall of 30 Per Cent. In the Bryan Strength In the Last Six Weeks—Other Places the Same.

There has been a reduction of fully 30 per cent. in the Bryan following in Rock county since July 1. Careful observers make this statement after talking with farmers and business men from all parts of the county. At the time of the silver convention there was here as elsewhere an outbreak of the silver craze. The craze subsided as swiftly as it had grown, and the tide of popular sentiment has set it now even stronger in the opposite direction. The same report is heard from other parts of the state. The Wisconsin National bank sent out some ninety circular letters to its correspondents in all parts of Wisconsin, requesting direct and reliable information on the subject. Replies have already been received from forty-three of these correspondents, located in every part of the state, and without exception they declare that the silver sentiment reached high tide shortly after the democratic convention and is now receding with greater rapidity than it came up.

One correspondent declares that had the election been held three weeks ago the silverites would have carried everything before them on the silver issue, but that literature has been freely circulated among the people since, that there are now six gold men to each silverite, and by November the ratio will be "16 to 1." This report comes from Mineral Point.

Beloit declares that the vote for McKinley and sound money will exceed that given to any candidate at any previous election. Manitowoc writes that the silverites are not numerous and are losing every day as the work of education goes on and the people become informed on the subject.

The correspondent at Berlin writes that the people there are anxious for information on the subject; they were crazed by the work of the Chicago convention, then came the awakening, and now as the work of enlightenment goes on they are getting in shape to poll the largest vote ever cast there in favor of honest money.

At Sheboygan the honest money sentiment is gaining every day, and the correspondent predicts that Sheboygan will roll up a majority for McKinley.

At Chilton the farmers are enthusiastic advocates of sound money.

At La Crosse the old wheel horses of the democratic party are openly advocating the election of McKinley, notwithstanding their objection to his tariff sentiments.

At Oshkosh the silver movement is absolutely dead, and some of the men who were the loudest shouters in its favor are now advocating a gold standard.

A correspondent at Beaver Dam who declares he is a Cleveland democrat predicts that McKinley will sweep the city and surrounding towns.

Boscobel predicts a very heavy republican vote.

Ashland declares that the silver sentiment is rapidly disappearing and that there is a rapidly growing sentiment in favor of McKinley.

A poll of Green Bay shows it to be almost solid for sound money. This is the story told in the letters from all parts of the state from observations made by careful, conservative business men, who are unused to the ways and snares of the politicians, whose policy is to claim everything up to the very hour of defeat.

MAJOR BURKE'S HAIR IS LONG.

But He No Longer Fears the Edge of the Scalping Knife.

The Hotel Myers register bears the signature of Major J. M. Burke, peace commissioner for the Sioux Indians. The major still wears a sombrero and cuts his hair a la cowboy, but his mission is a gentle one. He is advance agent for Buffalo Bill's Wild West. Major Burke has a romatic history. He was an important figure in the "Wounded Knee" campaign, when Indians by the thousands surrendered, and was with Col. Cody in several pieces of hard work on the plains.

DUCKS SCARCE AT KOSHKONONG

Hunters Report That They Have Had Poor Luck This Fall.

The mere fact that the duck season has opened doesn't make ducks plentiful. Janesville hunters who were at Koshkonong at daylight, August 20, are coming back to report poor luck.

"You don't hear a gun anywhere on the marsh," said W. M. Carrier. "There isn't a duck in sight and the best the boys can do is to fish. Charley Andrews, Ben Barriage and myself carried off the honors Thursday—we got two mud ducks between us. I saw only two teal all day. Nobody will get any shooting until there is a sharp frost."

Further north good sport is being had. Duck hunters, who have returned from the shooting grounds north of Green Bay report that the birds are plentiful and some good bags have been made.

Reports received are to the effect that there are a great many ducks on the Wolf river, at Montello, on Poygan Lake near Oshkosh, Lake Butte des Morts at Neenah, and other points.

HOT WEEK FOR THE HOTELS.

Base Ball Tournament and Buffalo William Likely To Boom Business.

Four lively days are promised next week. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the Edgerton and Sharon ball players will hang their banners on the outer wall of Athletic park, and do things that will cause umpires to shiver and scorers to turn pale. The ball players will give the town all the excitement it can stand, for three days, and Thursday Buffalo Bill's caravan comes along. Both the base ball match and the show will be a good thing for hotel men, and the spirit that prevails is accordingly cheerful.

They have started for home, and, providing that the roads are in good condition and the weather in their favor, the trip will occupy but a few days

COOL WEATHER HURTS CAR TRADE

People Find They Can Walk Now That the Breezes Blow.

WANTED THE GOLD FOR HIS LEAF CROP

FREE SILVER MAN SURPRISED S. B. HEDDLES.

Sales During the Past Week Have Been Few—Growers Are Getting the New Crop Under Cover and Report It to Be the Best on Record.

"This is bought on a gold basis," said S. B. Heddles, laughingly, as he bargained for a crop of leaf in the town of Fulton, yesterday.

The grower had been arguing a little on the free silver side, declaring that the white metal was good enough for him. When the deal was closed, however, he called the Janesville alderman's attention to what he said about a gold basis.

"You'd just as soon pay me in gold, I suppose," he remarked.

Heddles was stumped for a minute. He doesn't carry $250 in gold with him ordinarily and yet he doesn't like to swallow his words.

"Certainly you can have gold," he said. "Here is my check and you can take it to the bank and get gold on it or any kind of money you want," he said.

Then as an afterthought he suggested:

"But you can't do that with checks if Bryan gets hold of the rudder."

The free silver man said nothing, but went home with a wad of gold coin wrapped in his handkerchief.

Leaf Sales Are Few.

There hasn't been much buying of tobacco for gold or for silver, either, in the last week. The Leaf says that very little riding is being done and the sales from the warehouses are small in size and not any to frequent in occurence.

The condition is due partly to the extremely hot weather of last week and the dull busines throughout the country due to the political agitation and attending uncertainity as to results.

The banks of the east are curtailing credits until after the national credits until after the national election and this prevents much speculation, so the next few weeks will doubtless be quiet ones.

During the past few weeks we have had cooler weather, giving our farmers an excellent opportunity to harvest their crops. Many have finished, and by the close of this week at least two-thirds of the tobacco will be in the sheds Aside from now and then a display of rust, the crop is especially fine. It is the heaviest ever grown in the state, and to all appearances the best one. The yield will simply be enormous, even the top leaves this year being larger than the best growth of other seasons.

BIG BAND PICNIC IN FOOTVILLE

John M. Whitehead Will Be the Principal Speaker—Row at a Ball Game

Footville, Aug. 21—A grand picnic will be given by the band boys in Beach's woods on Tuesday, August 25. Several bands will be in attendance. Hon. J. M. Whitehead will be the orator of the day. Everybody should attend as this is the last picnic of the season. Strang & Owen have added a line of caskets to their business, and are now ready to serve the public as professional undertakers. Mr. and Mrs. Ora Shaw have a young daughter with them who has come to make her home with them. Miss Maud Wells is entertaining Miss Brown of West Virginia. Constable Theo. Dann had an assault and battery case before Justice Fisher on Monday last, the contesting parties being Frederick Baas and wife. The offenders got off with a light sentence and a curtain lecture. The corn binders were given a public trial on the farm of James Meehan on Tuesday last, the McCormick and Deering dividing honors. William Richards is improving his residence by putting on new siding all around. The ball game on Sunday afternoon, on the Charley Hawk place, between Center and Magnolia, ended up in a row. Although no blood was spilled, angry words and threats were freely indulged in. The social at Henry Phillip's, was well attended, and a pleasant evening spent by all present. Rev. Milton Wells and wife, who are now living in Virginia, are visiting their son Frank. There will be no services at the Methodist church, next Sunday, on account of the convention of the Epworth League at Whitewater. Miss Flora Richards has been engaged to teach the school in the Hammel district. R. R. Carlson paid 43 cents per hundred for milk during the month of July, with most of the milk testing unusually low. Miss Hettie Dame will attend the Evansville seminary the coming term.

SILVER TALK BEATS THE BAND.

Prof. Rosso Says That Political Debate Is Death On Art.

Prof. Rosso is against free silver.
He says it kills art.

Prof. Rosso manages the hat that circulates so appealingly after the Rosso Albini Bros. street orchestra has interpreted for Janesville people the masterpieces, of Verdi, Mascagni, Sousa and that eminent maestro, Signor "Anon."

"We get this year what you call the double cross," said Professor Rosso. "Is it that the fluent Signor Bryan had in mind?"

The professor had just bought a Chicago draft with $11.50 worth of dimes and quarters—the result of his morning's work, but he was not satisfied.

"Politics, politics, everywhere!" he complained. "Men with the hair of the buccaneer on their faces stand on the corners and make such a noise with their talk that the gentle music of the 'fid' cannot be heard."

Prof. Rosso has been in Janesville several times before. He says his twen y-five cent customers have become ten cent customers this year while his old time ten cent customers now give him the face of ice.

Miniatures on Dinner Cards

The miniature craze has gone so far that today even the dinner card has a miniature head for ornamentation. Some cards are about four inches square and have in the upper left-hand corner a miniature head in colors to match the decorations. The name is written across the card in gold. When the decorations of the dinner table are in delicate colors cards are made of ribbons harmonizing in tint, about eight inches in width, with miniature heads occupying the upper portion and the name written vertically below. A pretty idea was carried out recently at a reunion dinner given by a Scotch family. In place of the cards there were tiny booklets, decorated on the cover with purple Scotch thistle and the family coat of arms, the inside cover being used for the name of the guest. The autograph of each of the party was written in each of the tiny booklets and taken away as a souvenir.

Maine Girl's Pet Pig.

A Saco, Maine, girl has a pet pig which she leads about the streets of that town as other girls sometimes lead a poodle. The pig is young, and pretty as pigs go, and wears a broad bow of scarlet ribbon about its neck. It rambles along contentedly as a poodle would, except when its mistress' walks take it past an inviting puddle, when there is usually a sharp and noisy struggle for a minute or two before the porker can be persuaded to pursue its promenade.

Gala Day for a Veteran Equine.

There is a horse in Greenville, Ohio, that has been driven between the town and the railroad station to carry the mail for more than a quarter of a century. A few days ago the people of the town turned out and celebrated the veteran mail carrier's 34th birthday. Both horse and wagon were gayly decorated.

Why He Left.

This incident isn't intended to discourage the legitimate business of a book agent, says the Oxford Democrat, but perhaps it may point a moral. There was a ring at the door of a South Paris house one forenoon recently and the lady of the house, taking her hands out of the flour on the cake board, went to the door.

"Is Mrs. Blank at home?" inquired a stranger who stood at the door.

"I am," was the reply.

"Well," said the stranger, as he pushed by her and took possession of the parlor, "I would like to talk with you a few minutes." Tossing his coat and hat on the sofa and taking his prospectus from his pocket, he continued: "I am introducing a work that——"

"Is it a book on etiquette?" interrupted the lady of the house.

The stranger looked at her for a moment, then he took in the situation, also took his coat and hat and his departure.

Rhymes of the Times.

And the wind blew high on Market street,
But she didn't seem to mind;
Her gown was new and her face was sweet;
I lazily strolled behind.

The rude breeze tossed her golden hair;
It disarranged her hat;
It laid the nape of her white neck bare,
But it didn't stop at that.

For, wild with glee to find such prey
And ankles so neat and trim,
That mischievous zephyr, bold and gay,
Indulged in a naughty whim.

Oh, to be at the front, in the foremost ranks,
Let those who are so inclined;
I owe that zephyr a vote of thanks—
I'm glad that I walked behind.

HIS TIME WAS LIMITED.

The Train's Delay Was a Matter of Importance to the Traveler.

They were holding the westbound express at Reno for the eastbound to pass, says an Exchange, and after a while a tough-looking character came sauntering into the waiting room and asked of the ticket agent:

"Wall, how long afore this train leaves?"

"Can't tell," was the curt reply.

The man went away, but in the course of half an hour he returned to inquire.

"Heard anything yet?"

"No."

"Can't you tell when this train will pull out?"

"No, sir. If you are here when the train goes you can go with it. It's no use coming here to bother me."

"I don't want to bother you nor nobody else," slowly replied the questioner. "But mebbe you don't understand how I'm fixed. I'm Prairie Sam's partner."

"Well?"

"Sam got into a little shootin' scrape uptown this forenoon."

"Yes."

"And about an hour ago the boys turned out and pulled Sam up to a limb."

"Did, eh. I hadn't heard of that. Why didn't they pull you up with him?"

"The blamed limb wasn't stout 'nuff to hold the both of us and they was too tired to hunt for another. They gim me two hours to leave town in. One of the hours has gone and I'm kinder anxus about the other. I kin buy a hoss and ride out if that train won't be here in time, but I'd a heap raythor take the kyars. I don't want to bother you but under the sarcumstances——"

"I see. Well, the train will be here in half an hour."

"Good. That gives me thirty minits to play on and I won't look for a hoss. Nice weather this."

"Beautiful weather for a lynching bee."

"Of course. That's what I mean. I'll jest step up and take one long, lingerin' look at Sam and then ketch the train."

Peacefulness and Vegetables.

An objection urged against vegetarianism is that it would make us too peaceable. A mixed diet is supposed to give restlessness, energy and love of domination, and, therefore, to give to races which adopt it some advantages over others which do not. The connection of food with racial character—if there be such a connection—is a matter which cannot now be discussed. The savage eats his enemy's heart because he thinks he thereby acquires his enemy's mental qualities. We know that the analogy is a false one, but we sometimes reason much in the same strain. The Anglo-Saxon race is supposed to acquire its energy from the quantity of meat which it consumes. We might with an equal show of logic contend that our energy is due to our drunkenness or our love of gambling. If national predominace be a desirable thing that race will be the fittest to survive which has the greatest intelligence and the highest physical efficiency and which practices the greatest economy in the use of its resources.—Westminster Review.

THOSE gents fine shoes we are selling for $2 00 are worth $4 00 and $5.00 a pair. Winslow & Lowell.

YOUR TIRED STOMACH.

"I have no appetite," you say, "and the little I do eat does me no good. At first it feels cold and dead in my stomach and by and by I have aches and pains that sometimes go to my chest and back. I feel weak, low spirited and out of sorts all over. I fancy the demon of dyspepsia has got me." That's the way you talk and no wonder. But wait a moment. Let us reason together. Perhaps thus far your stomach is merely tired. You have been eating too much, eating the wrong things, and irregularly. You have given it too much to do, and like all living things, when overworked, it stops at length from sheer exhaustion. There may not be an actually diseased condition as yet. Still it is nature's warning, and you must heed it or worse will follow. "But I must eat or starve," you say. True enough, but safety usually lies in middle courses. Here is one for you. You don't need drastic purges or exciting stimulants. Your condition is one easily relieved if we go about it gently and sensibly. The tired stomach won't work under whip and spur. It has probably had too much of that already. What you require is something that is at once a food and a digester of food. Such an article is the Shaker Digestive Cordial, discovered and prepared by the Shaker Community of Mt. Lebanon, N. Y. Taken right after eating, so as to mix with the food, it does the stomach's work for it, gives it the advantage of further rest, strengthens you in a natural way, and soon enables the stomach to full duty. There is nothing else like this simple, safe certain and palatable remedy. Yet the Shakers respect your doubts, and authorize druggists to sell a trial bottle for ten cents.

HOW PRICES COMPARE.

A cause may be injured by exaggeration and to this injury the sound money movement is subject. There has been circulated in Janesville in the last few days a list purporting to show the prices of staple provisions in Mexican stores. Ham is quoted at eighty cents a pound, crackers, fifty cents a pound; flour $15 a sack, and other goods in proportion Such prices are preposterous. The difference between Mexican prices and United States prices in the main will be the difference between silver bullion values and United States coin values—some such difference as would be felt here, were free coinage to be established. A table recently compiled by the mayor of Ed Paso, Texas, and published in the Milwaukee Sentinel today shows about what this would be. El Paso is just across the line from Juarez, Mexico, and wholesale prices in the two towns are given in the money of the country, those on the American side reckoned in United States money (gold standard) and those on the other side in Mexican silver, the standard of that country. The list is as follows:

	In United States.	In Mexico
Breakfast bacon, per lb	$ 11½	$ 32
Ham, per lb	11½	32
Matches, per gross	60	1.20
Pickles, in five-gallon kegs	2.25	6.50
Vinegar, in five-gallon kegs	60	1.40
Baking soda, per dozen	1.06	2.40
Salt, in 2-lb sacks	40	90
Maccaroni, per lb	10	25
Baking powder	4.00	9.00
Molasses, per gallon	75	1.69
Beans, per lb	3	17
Cheese, per lb	12½	29
Candles, per box	5.00	11.75
Catsup, per doz	2.76	6.25
Jelly, per doz	2.00	5.00
Dry plums, per lb	11	25
Dried apples and peaches, per lb	11	25
Dried prunes, per lb	10	20
Cornstarch, per doz	1.06	1.90
Lemon extract, per doz	1.00	1.90
Vanilla extract, per doz	2.25	3.00
Coffee, per lb	20	40
Soap, per box	3.75	5 00
Tea, per lb	35 to $1.70	to $1.50
Deviled ham, per doz	2.90	6.50
Sugar, per sack of 100 lbs	5.50	10.75
Flour, per sack of 100 lbs	2.25	8.50
Rice, per lb	5	11½
Canned tomatoes, per case	2.25	7.90
Crackers, per lb	7½	21

Store-keeper in Juarez get no benefit from the high prices. They have to pay more for their goods in proportion. Workingmen get no benefit. Their wages computed in silver buy much less than the wages of their fellow-workingmen in Texas. Farmers get no benefit. The high price of goods that they buy wipes out the profit on what they sell. Nobody is benefitted save the money-lenders who profit by the continual fluctations of exchange.

WON'T STAY IN THE TRACES.

L. W. Nieman has resigned as a member of the democratic state central committee. R. M. Bashford of Madison, who offered his resignation as a member of the committee ten days ago, was also stricken from the list yesterday. Resignations are expected from Samuel Smead of Fond du Lac, Joseph Vilas of Manitowoc, M. C. Mead of Plymouth, and T. M. Frawley of Eau Claire, all of whom have repudiated the Chicago platform and signed the call for a new convention. The old-time democrats who stay by Wall and Peck in what Editor Usher calls "their unpardonable bunco game" will be few and far between.

Six thousand citizens of northern Wisconsin gathered in Marinette to ratify the nomination of Major Scofield. A significant thing was the evidence that all factions of the republican party are pulling shoulder to shoulder in the same harness this year.

The unanimous willingness on the part of democratic statesmen to let that apportionment suit drop is amusing. What would Senator Vilas and Burr W. Jones have done, if the free silver pretext had not presented itself?

The flour trust has gone to pieces, it is said, but no breathless messenger comes in with the news of the collapse of the anthracite coal combine.

Milwaukee socialists object strenuously to having the free silver democrats fuse with them. Chairman Peck finds trouble on every hand.

One more speech by Bryan in New York and McKinley's majority will be something to test the capacity of steam calculating machines.

Railroad men are lining up for sound money. They don't want their wages paid in dollars that go only half as far as dollars go today.

Murder at Bloomington, Ill.

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 21.—The body of William Dixon, son of Patrick Dixon, one of the pioneer Irish citizens of Bloomington, was found in a pool of blood on the sidewalk on Morris avenue, near Empire street, at 1 o'clock Thursday morning. At the coroner's inquest the evidence showed that Dixon, who was 21 years of age, was foully murdered, and such was the verdict rendered by the jury. There is no clew to the assassin.

War Not Likely.

Pretoria, Aug. 21.—President Kreuger of the Transvaal Republic declares that the stories attributing hostile intentions on the part of the Transvaal are absolutely inventions, spread by people who were angry because Great Britain and the Transvaal could not be pushed into a war with each other. In conclusion, he expressed the opinion that war between the Transvaal Republic and Great Britain would never occur.

No Trouble with the Emperor.

Berlin, Aug. 21.—The Reichsanzeiger publishes a semi-official note which declares that General Bronsart Von Schellendorff, who was recently minister for war, resigned on account of ill health, thus denying the reports that his retirement was due to a difference of opinion with the emperor regarding reform in military trials.

Colorado Prohibitionists.

Denver, Col., Aug. 21.—The prohibition state convention adopted resolutions in favor of the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. Many of the delegates declared their intention to vote for Bryan and Sewall. A full state ticket was nominated, headed by W. A. Marsh for governor.

American Firms Borrowing Money.

London, Aug. 21.—The Daily Telegraph says that with the object of keeping exchange down one leading American firm has been borrowing money in London, the amount mentioned being £1,000,000. The Telegraph says that it is understood that a similar sum was taken to America a short time ago for a similar purpose. All of the financial articles published in the London dailies make lengthy comments upon the condition of the money market in America.

THERE is one noticeable feature about the new embroideries. The very open edges that have been prevailing for the past two seasons, are gradually disappearing and giving place to firmer edges. The open work may appear, but it will be up higher in the muslin, and the edges themselves are firm and strong. The ladies at a glance, will see the advantage of this new edge in both wear and laundry work. It will wear better, and will not show the frayed edges after it is laundered. The open work that appears on the muslin above the firm edges, is known as eyelet work, and is the latest. Bort, Bailey & Co.

PRICES ON FLOUR GO UP AND DOWN

MILLING COMBINE HAS BEEN BROKEN.

Grocers Are In Doubt About What the Effect Will Be—Jobbers Say That the Minimum Price Condition Has Been Removed From Contracts.

Grocers are looking for a commotion in the flour market. It is reported that the big flour-milling combine has gone under. Jobbers report that the minimum selling price has been removed and that there is now no limit to selling either way. Otherwise it is asserted, all of the agreements are in force and the association is fully as active as ever.

The removal of the selling price limit, however, will operate to place the eastern members on the same footing as the western mills, especially those at Minneapolis.

It is stated that all of the trouble that the combine has had has been due to Minneapolis people. They had a way of sending notice in advance of a reduction in prices and by the time the notice was received by the other millers they would find that the market was glutted with Minneapolis flour. It was this that caused certain Milwaukee millers to drop out of the association.

Outside millers now claim that the removal of the minimum price is but one of several steps which the combine has been forced to take lately toward complete dissolution, and they figure that a continuation of the agreement under the conditions which it has to face, and with dissension and distrust among the members, is an impossibility.

SHORT TIME GIVEN ON MEAT ORDERS

POLITICS HAS ITS EFFECT ON BUSINESS.

Wholesale House Writes to Its Representative In This City Advising That Sales Be Made On Fifteen Days Whenever Possible—Long Credits Feared.

It isn't politics, it is business that will swing the election this year. H. A. Born, who represents the Butchers' Supply Company of St. Louis in this part of Wisconsin, got a letter from the house today, giving figures on summer goods, and winding up with these words:

Owing to the silver craze, which has demoralized business and caused a very tight money market, we do not care to force business too much for the present. We want to go very slow and careful until after the election, for should Bryan be elected, firms without a fat bank balance will be in an extremely ticklish position. So, for the present, until you have received other notification, do not take any orders on which you have to give more than thirty days' time, and with customers with whom you are well acquainted, ask it as a favor to have the terms on any sale you make them read fifteen days. As McKinley's election is not by any means a certainty, things have a blue aspect, and under these circumstances, we desire to be very careful, and sell on short terms, so that we can get our money in a hurry if we need it. After the election, if McKinley should be elected, which we sincerely hope, then we can be liberal and make better terms; but until then, make all sales on thirty days or less, if possible.

Hush! Pan is sleeping
In forest deep on leafy bed.
Oh, softly tread!
Hum lullaby, O drowsy bee!
In charmed silence every tree
His watch is keeping.
Oh, softly tread; great Pan is sleeping.

Hark! Pan is waking.
A shiver through the leaves is creeping
Before the breeze.
Oh, see the hamadryads peeping
Behind the trees!
Their trunks glow ruddy in the sun.
And, hark! the blackbirds one by one
The silence breaking
With flutelike note, for Pan is waking.

A LITTLE MISTAKE.

That doctors commit mistakes is not generally known, although cases from time to time find their way into the newspapers. Dr. Carpenter, who may be said to have introduced the scientific study of human physiology into England, burned himself to death while attempting to take a Turkish bath in his own room by enveloping himself in a blanket and sitting over a spirit lamp. However, when a man poisons himself it is his own peculiar business which is involved, but when he takes to poisoning others, not with any malicious intent, but simply in error, a natural apprehension may well pervade the public mind. Protection in the matter is extremely simple, as the following narrative will show:

About 8 o'clock on a June evening a victoria drawn by a pair of high stepping bay horses drove up to a celebrated chemist's shop in Bond street, and an elegantly dressed lady of about 25 years of age descended from the carriage. She walked hurriedly through the shop into the dispensing department, and, throwing a piece of paper on the counter, said:

"Please make up this prescription and send it at once. I would wait and take it myself, but I am just going out to dinner. It is very important."

The assistant bowed, took up the prescription and then seemed to hesitate.

"Well," said the lady, who seemed of a highly nervous, irritable disposition, "well, what is the matter?"

"I am afraid, madam," returned the assistant, "that I cannot dispense this prescription."

"Oh, nonsense!" replied the lady. "That is what they said at —— in Mayfair, so I brought it on here. I suppose Dr. Blank knows what he prescribes."

"Doubtless, madam; but, although Dr. Blank is one of the most eminent of his profession, I dare not make up this prescription, as the strength at which the drug is here ordered is not allowed by the British pharmacopœia."

"Oh, nonsense!" repeated the lady, commencing to patter on the floor with her small foot. "This is monstrous. Here is my husband waiting for medicine of the utmost importance to his condition, and two chemists' assistants think they know better what is good for him than one of the leading men of the College of Physicians. Give me the prescription, and I will get it prepared elsewhere." The assistant was loath to part with the paper.

"If you will allow me, madam," he said, "I will take a cab to Dr. Blank's, and if he confirms the prescription I will then prepare it."

"No, I will not," returned the lady, who was now in a state of extreme irritation. "I will not. My husband is in a serious condition, and I shall be late for dinner. I have already lost half an hour, and I cannot have further delay." With that she snatched up the prescription and hurried out.

The assistant was seriously perturbed. The mistake in the prescription was a grave one—so grave indeed that the administration of a single dose would probably prove fatal within two hours. It was possible that some young or inexperienced assistant at some small chemist's, overawed by the great name of the physician and by the lady's imperious manner and elegant attire and equipage, would be found to dispense it. Then trouble would ensue, which might be stopped now. Thinking thus, the assistant told his fellow worker in the dispensary that he would go to Dr. Blank's, and, hurrying into Bond street, jumped into the first passing hansom, and in five minutes was ringing the bell of the doctor's house in Harley street. The footman who opened the door said Dr. Blank was out.

"Where was he?"

Really the footman did not know. "Very important, was it?"

Ah! Well, then, he (the footman) must inquire. This he leisurely proceeded to do. And the chemist's assistant, who was of an imaginative turn, amused himself by picturing meanwhile the death of the patient; the professional ruin of himself, the Mayfair chemist and the great physician; the grief and self reproach of the lady, who, despite her wayward, irritable and careless demeanor, was evidently fond of her husband. And he had already arrived at the coroner's jury's verdict of manslaughter when the footman returned with the intelligence that his master was dining in Maida Vale. The cab soon whirled the errant knight of the pestle and mortar into the Edgeware road and drew up at one of the large houses which lie on the right hand side of Maida Vale immediately after passing the canal. Dinner was evidently in full progress, and the footman showed the assistant into an anteroom with no very good grace. Here another wait occurred, which preyed on the already irritated nerves of our friend even more than the previous one at Harley street. At last the door opened, and the doctor entered. He was a dapper little man, about 5 feet 5 in height, with a pale, thin face and hair and mustache the color of tow. His clear, steel blue gray eyes saved his appearance from being insignificant. He looked inquiringly at the assistant, who, bowing, said.

"I am a dispenser, sir, at Messrs. ——. At about 8 o'clock this evening a lady, Mrs. ——, presented a prescription signed by you in which potassi arsenica was ordered in three dram doses."

"Good God!" cried the physician "Is it possible?"

"There can be no doubt of it," replied the assistant, "as the prescription was refused by another chemist."

The doctor walked hurriedly up and down the room.

"Can it have been altered?" he muttered.

"I looked carefully for that, but there was not the slightest sign of an erasure. No, sir," continued the assistant. "I am afraid it is a little mistake on your part. I only fear that it may be made up and administered, and I therefore went at once to your house, and, learning where you were, came on here."

"Quite right, quite right," said the doctor. "Have you a cab waiting? That's well. I'll go with you at once to the patient."

It took but a few minutes for the doctor to make his excuses and return ready for departure, and the cab, once more in motion, turned toward the neighborhood of Eton square. The house at which it now pulled up betokened far greater wealth than either of the other two at which it had stopped since chartered in Bond street, but an air of quietude peculiar to residences in which lie invalids in a very critical condition pervaded the place. The street door was opened noiselessly by a footman before the occupants of the cab were fairly on the doorstep, and the doctor was shown into a room on the ground floor which answered the purposes of a library as much as such rooms usually do in London houses.

"Send me Nurse Moore," said the doctor.

"Nurse Moore is out for exercise," replied the footman. "Nurse Norris is on duty, I happen to know, for she took the new medicine which I carried up not five minutes ago.

Dr. Blank was a little man, and little men are usually quick in their motions. But never did man, little or big, fly up the stairs at the same rate as he did before the last words were out of the footman's mouth. The assistant followed, but had only reached the first floor when the doctor entered the bedroom on the second. Nurse Norris was standing by the bed measuring a dose of medicine from a bottle. She was a tall, dark young woman of 25, very pleasant looking and apparently pursuing her vocation with care, as she did not even look up when the doctor entered.

"None of that, nurse!" exclaimed the doctor.

"I beg pardon, sir?" said the nurse, now aroused to the sense of some incongruity in the physician's manner, which became intensified when a strange young man, very much out of breath, almost fell into the room from the passage.

"I should say, How is the patient? A very warm night, and likely to render him uncomfortable," continued the doctor with his soul in his eyes and his eyes on the bottle.

"I think I am a little better, doctor," said a weak voice from the bed, on which lay a man of about 30 with the peculiarly emaciated and drawn look which invariably follows a prolonged or very severe illness; "a little easier."

"That's right," said the doctor, feeling the invalid's pulse, "that's right. Yes, a marked improvement." Then, having completed a rather lengthy examination, he turned to the nurse. "A decided improvement, nurse. For tonight we will discontinue all drugs. Give nothing except his usual nourishment until I come again. Dr. W—— will return tomorrow, and when we have a local practitioner once more in attendance you will take your instructions from him. In the meantime give no medicine. Indeed, I will take it with me." And without noticing the hurt and resentful look of the nurse the doctor pounced on the bottle and transferred it to his coat pocket.

On that particular June evening the assistant at Messrs. —— had been gravely cogitating whether he would be justified in wedding the girl of his choice, who was too delicate to be able to add to the common purse, on a salary of £100 a year and had decided in the negative. Six months after a quiet but very happy wedding party returned to a very flourishing chemist's shop in the neighborhood of Cavendish square which bore the name of the assistant over the front as its proprietor. And if you have ever occasion to consult the great physician, you may be sure that, whatsoever his opinion of your case may be, he will add, as he hands you your prescription: "Be sure you have it made up at a good chemist's. Mr. —— is an extremely careful dispenser, and in addition personally analyzes every drug which goes into his place. Thank you. Good morning!"—Chambers' Journal.

Measuring Medicine.

Use a medicine glass with the amount of each spoonful and drop marked upon it. Teaspoonfuls and tablespoonfuls are always mentioned, but as these vary in size it is not safe to rely upon them. Drops, too, cannot be properly measured without a glass.

Keep the medicine glass perfectly clean. It should be washed out after each dose, in readiness for the next time. It is desirable that if the patient is to have medicine with a strong smell, oils, etc., to keep a glass specially for them, letting it soak in hot water for half an hour after use to remove all disagreeable odor. It is impossible to cleanse such a glass in a few moments.

When the medicine is being poured out, hold the label uppermost, in order that it may not become stained with any drops escaping down the side of the bottle.

Pickled Tea In Burma.

Pickled tea is used in Burma as a sort of sauerkraut. The young leaves are boiled, poured into pits about six feet deep lined with plantain leaves and covered with earth, and are kept there for some months. They are then used either to make tea or eaten after being soaked in oil with garlic or dried fish.

Good News From South Dakota.

The glorious results of this season's harvest of golden grain will pour a stream of sound money into the pockets of every Dakota farmer.

South Dakota has thousands of acres of choice farming and ranch land lying east of the Missouri river, and within one day's ride from Chicago or Milwaukee, which can now be bought reasonably cheap, but which before the end of another year may be advanced in price.

The stock raising industry in South Dakota is profitable and eastern capital is now being invested in cattle and sheep growing in that state.

Diversified farming, the growing of live stock, and the products of the dairy, are placing South Dakota foremost in the ranks of the successful western states.

SKIRTS AND CAPES.

Traveling Dresses Made Plain—Ornamented Only With Stitching and Buttons.

Skirts are worn quite even all around, no longer behind than before. Godets are confined to the back, and little trimming is employed, quite plain skirts being preferred, although a little ornamentation is admissible.

Pretty capes are seen, to accompany dainty calling costumes. They are of old red or old blue, old gold or dull green broche, lined and trimmed with black or white mousseline de soie. Flounces, thick ruches, choux, elaborate collars and ribbons are used upon them in profusion.

Traveling gowns are preferably simple, but of perfect finish and style. They are of fine alpaca or mohair or of mixed goods, since the last named are extremely serviceable and do not show dust or moisture. Covert cloth is admirable for this purpose. The tailor made effect is usually preferred, the skirt being plain, but lined with silk and having only a very narrow haircloth facing, say from three to five inches wide. Stitching, straps and buttons are permitted as ornamentation. The upper part of the costume frequently consists of a coat with loose fronts, opening at will over a chemisette of percale, foulard or thin flannel. The sleeves are not very full. The hat is of light weight and sparsely trimmed, ribbon and quills being considered more appropriate than ostrich plumes, flowers and lace. Loose gloves of suede, of three or four button length, or glace biarritz gloves form an appropriate finish to the costume.

A fashionable walking costume is shown in the cut. It is of green serge, the tablier of the plain skirt being bordered at the foot and the right side by a bias band of black satin. The left side is adorned with three clasps in black passementerie. The bodice has a bias, stretched back, the front opening over a plastron of white faille gathered at the waist. Motifs of passementerie ornament the sides of the front. The wide collar of white faille is bordered by a bias band of satin, and there is a neck ruche of white lace. The wrist of the bias sleeve is adorned with a motif of passementerie and a lace frill.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHIONS FOR AUTUMN.

Capes and Sacks, Both Short and Long, Will Be Worn.

Among other indications that hint of autumn styles are skirts ornamented around the foot by narrow bands of velvet put on flat. Others are encircled by similar bands to the height of six or seven inches. This fashion of velvet on worsted goods promises to be a winter feature, for still other skirts are seen having quilles and points of velvet, with velvet figures likewise on bodices in the form of square or round boleros, and motifs variously disposed, with lace or embroidery composing revers or flat coquilles. In fact, velvet ornamentation of costumes both dark and light seems to be the one thing that is fully decided with respect to cool weather wardrobes. The newer form of sleeve, in which a tight, close portion is opposed by a bouffant arrangement, gives an excellent opportunity for combinations of goods.

It is also safe to count upon a variety of attractive cape models and innumerable short sacks, with or without plaits, made quite straight. These latter are having quite a vogue in Paris already, but perhaps they will be less readily accepted here. Long, tight fitting coats of light colored cloth, adorned with large buttons and revers and collar of velvet of various shades, will be worn.

As for hats, it is more difficult to predict what their characteristics will be, for fashions in millinery are more fleeting even than in gowns. Dark felt hats are likely to be largely worn, and black felts will accompany many elegant dresses. Ostrich feathers will be employed in all sorts of ways and in profusion, being the principal ornament to be used.

A picture is given of a costume of blue alpaca. The plain skirt is adorned around the foot by two narrow bands of blue galloon, the tablier being outlined in the same manner. The blouse bodice has a short, rippled basque and opens in front over a plastron of blue alpaca. The very large sailor collar is of white faille and is trimmed with two bands of narrow galloon. The belt is likewise of white faille, the cravat being of white tulle with lace ends. Lace frills finish the wrists.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Counter Irritant.

"Yes, dear wife," and he closed his eyes, "the end is near. The world grows dark about me. There is a mist around me gathering thicker and thicker, and there, as through a cloud, I hear the music of angels--sweet and sad."

"No, no, John, dear; that's the brass band on the corner."

"What!" said the dying man, jumping from his bed and flinging the bootjack at the leader. "Have these scoundrels dared to come around here when I am dying!" And he recovered. — Bay City Chat.

A Remarkable Case.

"Here's a sensational elopement story that is rather remarkable," he said, looking up from his newspaper.

"Does it fail to say that the girl is beautiful?" she asked.

"No. It says that she is 'entrancingly lovely,'" he replied.

"Then what is there remarkable about it?" she inquired.

"It fails to say that she moves in either 'an exclusive set' or 'the highest circles of society.'"—Chicago Post.

What Ailed Him?

Mr. Jenks (sadly)—No use, my friend. Nothing can stop my hair from coming out but death, or divorce.—N. Y. Weekly.

The Greater Fatigue.

"I should think," she said, sympathetically, to the young man who acts, "that you would get tired of saying the same thing over and over."

"No," he answered, with pensive sadness, "it isn't that that makes us tired. It's hearing the same thing over and over when we ask for the salary that never came."—Washington Star.

His Little Compliment.

"How do you like your new bike, Miss Wheeler?"

"Splendidly! Why, Mr. Pedleman, do you know, it rides so easily that half the time it seems as though it wanted to run away with me!"

"Perfectly natural it should, I am sure. If I had its chances I would do so, too."—Odds and Ends.

Not a Thing.

"Hello, Halket, where have you been?" asked Hiland, who met his friend on the street, looking very weary.

"Been fishing."

"What did you catch?"

"Nothing."

"Nothing?"

"No; not even a train for home."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

An Explanation.

Didn't Expect Much.

"Do you really think you will be happy with me?" asked Esmeralda Longcoffin of Gus DeSmith, to whom she is engaged.

"I've no doubt of it. You see I am one of these easily satisfied sort of fellows who never expects much, anyhow," replied Gus.—Texas Sifter.

Before and After.

He's most polite, the candidate,
Just prior to election;
And after that you contemplate
An ossified affection.
—Washington Star.

A woman never really knows the meaning of happiness and content until she is the mother of a healthy, happy child. The health of the child depends on the health of the mother, both before and after birth. Most all of woman's weakness and particularly the weakness that most strongly influences the health of children, comes from some derangement or disease of the distinctly feminine organs. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure all troubles of this nature. It should be taken regularly by every woman during the entire period of gestation. It gives strength to all the organs involved, lessens the pains of childbirth and insures the health of both mother and child.

THE NEW EMBROIDERIES!

ARE HERE.

500 pieces, newest patterns, direct from St. Gall, Switzerland. Our arrangements are made direct with the agents for the mills in Switzerland and we pay no middle men or jobbers any profit on these goods. About four times each year we get a large invoice of these Embroideries. They are put up for us by the agents. We rely on them and they send us the newest productions, and, as the ladies of this city know, we show you the prettiest Embroideries at the least price This lot comprises Cambric, Nainsook and Swiss Embroideries. You can buy them at 5c per yard; you can buy them at $1.50 per yard; you can buy them at all prices between. We are especially strong in qualities selling at 10c, 12 1-2c, 15c, 20c and 25c. There is one noticeable feature about the new Embroideries. The very OPEN EDGES that have been prevailing for the past two seasons are gradually disappearing and giving place to finer edges. The open work may appear but it will be up higher on the muslin and the edges themselves are firm and strong. The ladies at a glance will see the advantage of this new edge in both wear and laundry work. It will wear better and will not show the frayed edges after it is laundered. The open work that appears on the muslin above the firm edges is known as EYELET WORK and is the latest.

IN CONNECTION WITH THE EMBROIDERIES WE OFFER:

SWORD OF A GIANT.

Strange Discovery Made in Excavating for a Foundation.

Workmen engaged in putting new sills under an outbuilding on Col. Fleischner's property, adjoining the residence of Mr. Rudolph Goldsmith, on 7th street, made a remarkable find yesterday in the shape of an old-fashioned two-handed sword. To have found any kind of a sword in such a place would have been remarkable, says the Portland Oregonian, but no one would ever imagine that under an outbuilding in Portland would be found a two-handed sword such as was in use in the middle ages—that is, during the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth centuries, in the time of the crusades, when fighting men wore plate armor and knights-errant wandered about the world rescuing lovely princesses from enchanters, giants, ogres and other "bad men" of those days. When this business was dull, as Mark Twain puts it, they "went a-grailing"—that is, in search of the holy grail, which was nothing and was to be found nowhere. The sword, as its name implies, was to be used with both hands, and if it failed to cut through an enemy's armor the force of the blow was enough to knock him flat. The blade of the sword is four feet long and continues past the guard nine inches as a tang for the handle, which is composed of two pieces of oak, apparently, having a round knob or pommel at the end and dark with age. The guard is simple bar of iron about ten inches in length. The whole iron work has been hammered out and is, of course, now very rusty. The blade is two-edged, so as to "cut 'em a-comin and a-gwine," and the weapon looks as if it might be a genuine relic of olden times, when such swords were used by men of might, "whose bones are dust, whose swords, as a general thing, are rust and everything said about whose souls must be taken on trust." A number of people who handled the sword yesterday judged it to weigh all the way from fifteen to twenty-five pounds, but it kicked the beam at ten pounds. Just how the sword came under the outhouse no one can imagine. The building was moved there some twenty-five years ago and has not been disturbed since. Perhaps this paragraph may meet the eye of some one who can throw light on the subject, for the sword was doubtless placed under the building since it was moved there. It is not probable that any old crusader went through this way en route to the holy land, and no such swords have been in use since this country was discovered, and the people who lived here before that knew nothing of iron If it is a genuine relic it is of considerable value.

"SHE may have seen better days" but no better shoes than Richardson's ox bloods.

Courtship Among the Boers.

Courting among the race is a novel proceeding. A young man, having, of course, asked permission of his father to court the hand and heart of some neighboring damsel—by neighboring I mean anywhere within fifty miles—proceeds to purchase the most loudly colored and decorated saddle cloth for his horse that he can possibly find. He will spend large sums on this article of equine adornment, and one knowing the country can never mistake a young Boer going out courting. Mounted on his most spirited steed, he approaches the house of the father of his lady love. Unlike the youth of more civilized life, he avoids the lady and seeks her father, from whom he reverentially asks permission to court his daughter. The old man returns no answer but consults his vrou, and the youth joins the young folks. No more notice is taken of him during the day, but if his request be agreeable to the parents when the hour for retiring comes the mother solemnly approaches the young man and maiden with a long tallow candle in her hand. This she places on the table, lights, and, bidding the couple an affectionate goodnight, retires. This is the silent signal to the lover that his suit is successful. The young couple are permitted to sit up together in the kitchen so long as the candle lasts, when the lady retires to the dormitory of herself and her sisters and the youth shares the bed of the brothers or male portion of the family.—The Forum.

Character in T's.

From the letter "t" alone can one read character, says a French graphologist. The vertical line represents the fatality of life and the horizontal bar the influence human volition exercises upon this fatality. That part of the verticle line projecting above the horizontal bar indicates the measure of ideality in the writer's make-up. The practical and material part of man's character is shown in the inferior part of this line. Take the poet. He generally crosses his t's above the verticle line; his aspirations are high. The practical man invariably crosses his t's midway between the ideal course and the material. He proves himself to be in neither altogether. The optimist crosses his t's with a line sloping upward, from earth to sky, so to speak. The pessimist, on the other hand, crosses his t's by commencing at the ideal part of the letter, but from there he descends with a downward stroke.—New York Herald.
